Lewis Rector married Frances Lunsford in Wilkes County, North Carolina on December 1, 1788. They were married at the home of John Rector. The relationship - if any - to the Revolutionary War Soldier, John Rector who served in Virginia, is not known. Blackstone McDannell of Greene County, Tennessee acted as the Pension Agent for the Widow. There is no record of her presence in Greene County; however, that would be the only reason Blackstone McDannell was her 'Agent'. Perhaps she was living with one of her children??

Lewis Rector- W.45

Mr. W. I. Christopher
1700 South Jefferson Avenue
Springfield, Missouri

Dear Sir:

The data which follow were obtained from the papers on file in Revolutionary War pension claim, W.45, based upon the military service in that war of Lewis Rector.

The date and place of birth of Lewis Rector are not shown, nor are the names of either of his parents designated.

Lewis Rector enlisted in Swain County, North Carolina, in May, 1783, served as a private in Captain Sharp's Company, under Colonels Armstrong and Archibald Lytle in the North Carolina Troops and was discharged in 1783, having served eighteen months.

After the war, he lived in Wilkes, Iredell and Buncombe Counties, North Carolina.

He was allowed pension under the Act of June 7, 1832, under Certificate No. 29920, issued May 4, 1835. In 1834, it was stated that he was over seventy years of age. He then resided in Buncombe County, North Carolina, where he died January 30, 1844.

The soldier married in December, 1783, Frances Lunsford. They were married at the home of John Rector, in Wilkes County, North Carolina. Relationship of John Rector to the soldier, Lewis Rector, was not shown.

Soldier's widow, Frances, was allowed pension on her application executed March 27, 1844, at which time she was aged seventy-one years and resided in Buncombe County, North Carolina.

Children are referred to, three of whom were living as early as 1795; no names of children are given and there are no further family data.

Very truly yours

A. D. HILLER
Executive Assistant to the Administrator.
